BRIDGE BUILDER By Steinman & Watson

A bridge is the embodiment of the effort of human heads and human hearts and hands.

It carries peoples' burdens that the tasks of people may be lightened. It shortens distances and facilitates progress.

It diminishes that which divides us and brings people together in harmony, as its arching span is a link of unity over barriers that separate.

Bridge builders are servants in our community, building not monuments to themselves, but for service to others.

They pour their souls into the creation of their bridges, knowing there must be first, the vision and then, the compelling endeavor to bring that vision to reality.
